

*The Committee to Commemorate Divestiture
cordially invites you
Thursday, March 19, 1998
four o'clock
Michigan State University Library
Room W449*

Dear

This year marks the twentieth anniversary of Michigan State University's historic divestiture from corporations doing business in apartheid South Africa. This event exemplifies a series of actions by the University and the Lansing community to help end apartheid in South Africa.

Because of your involvement in this process, we request your presence at a special ceremony and panel discussion for the presentation of the Patricia L. Beeman Southern African Liberation Committee (SALC) Collection at the Michigan State University Library, Room W-449, on Thursday, March 19, 1998 at four o'clock.

We hope you will be able to participate. If you cannot, we ask that you send any recollections of SALC including Patricia Beeman's pivotal role in the local anti-apartheid movement.

The program:

- Formal acceptance by Clifford Haka, Director, Michigan State University Library, of the Patricia L. Beeman Southern African Liberation Committee (SALC) Collection into the library's Special Collections;
- Videotapes documenting SALC actions;
- Recollections on anti-apartheid organizing activities on campus and the Lansing community and acknowledgement of Patricia Beeman's special leadership by a panel of SALC activists and supporters;
- Your comments and recollections;
- Reception and Refreshments.

Sincerely,

The Committee to Commemorate Divestiture at Michigan State University

Frank Beeman, Bill Derman, Anabel Dwyer,
David Dwyer, Kofi Egbo, Lee June,
Barbara Thibeault, David Wiley.
